SKILLS DEVELOPMENT A CORNERSTONE AT FRTC

In his first State of the Nation address, President Cyril Ramaphosa announced that the inaugural Job Summit would be held in 2018 to tackle job creation and skills development in South Africa.

The summit, held in the first week of October, brought together government, business, labour and community organisations to advance job creation and play a part in advancing youth employment. After consultation involving all parties, it was agreed that job creation would be accelerated by skills development, SMME support, regulatory reforms, inclusive of growth and transformation.

As a training provider, skills development has always been a cornerstone of Felix Risk Training Consultants (FRTC). The consultancy's core offering includes training and consulting services to the financial services sector with programmes focussing on critical and scarce skills.

Developing the financial sector workforce significantly contributes to the mandate of the Job Summit, says Bernadette Felix of FRTC. "Skills development is valuable in job creation because it assists with the evolution of South Africa's workforce capability and its offering to the international market, thus promoting economic growth," she said.

"We value how government continues to recognise the value of skills development and its contribution to the job market and commit to working with organisations that realise the importance of developing their employees."

FRTC is fully accredited with BANKSETA, INSETA, QCTO, the Compliance Institute Southern Africa (CISA) & the Institute of Risk Management South Africa (IRMSA). The consultancy is provisionally registered as a private college with the Department of Higher Education and Training under the Continuing Education and Training Act, No. 16 of 2006.

"Our core strength is that we have extensive experience and a proven track record for the successful delivery of learnerships, qualifications and skills programmes. We have subject matter experts who offer a full training delivery package in contracting, project management, learner management, delivery, reporting, assessment, moderation, quality assurance and close-off of all training related programmes," said Felix.

"We are based in Durban, KwaZulu-Natal but we serve clients nationwide. We welcome the opportunity to assist your organisation with its training needs," she added.
